Notice Regarding Robert Kiraly, Former Editor

I have told my former editor Robert "OldCoder" Kiraly (of Final Minetest, minetest.org, chillcorner.org, etc) that I no longer wish to be contacted. Do not provide him with information to contact me or anyone else.

He does not represent me nor this book.

People familiar with his previous work will say "I told you so," and all I can say is, "my bad" for not considering spiritual elements and his stated root causes (views of what people are) and solutions rather than just strictly the facts regarding what he's said on minetest.org and Haggis Hell. I did my best to see situations from his point of view (despite disagreeing with his stated causes and solutions) and he was helpful and encouraging at the time of helping as editor. At the same time I thought if I listened enough and loved enough, maybe that would break through barriers he created in himself against God.

I knew Robert from minetest.org and I also tried to be a peacemaker between a Minetest videos author (from minetest.net) and Robert (from minetest.org), but the minetest.net person just thought I was intruding on Robert's behalf (after he interrupted by starting a group e-mail thread before I could finish getting their side of the story) and sharing e-mails and/or e-mail addresses with Robert which I did not. I did all this in good faith and with genuine concern and hope.

After years of assisting each other he started to apply dehumanizing rhetoric toward me after I pointed out his dehumanizing rhetoric wasn't in good faith and disagreed with his political takes. He did so again after I described his own behavior back to him regarding that and regarding violating my personal boundaries regarding frequently venting about corporate news (one-sided and/or hastily generalized) stories with me that triggered him. It became clear these behaviors weren't due to his immutable traits as he claimed, but selective, and I pointed out to him how he demonstrated that as well. He continued the dehumanization and unwelcome venting in a group e-mail, so I confronted him in the group setting as well, and said I didn't want him to contact me anymore. He proceeded to create another group e-mail using e-mail addresses that I didn't provide, in order to attempt to contact my loved ones and former school.
